RESEARCH INTERESTS:

I work at the intersection of health law and public policy, with a focus on economic, regulatory, and institutional issues. At present, my major projects include:

Health Insurance Markets and Regulation. Since 1990, I have investigated the effects of a host of regulatory and public policy responses to structural changes occurring in the health insurance market. Recent studies include health insurance exchanges, public reinsurance, and risk adjustment.

Safety-Net Access for the Uninsured. Despite comprehensive insurance reforms, tens of millions will remain uninsured. This line of research studies the continuing role of the safety net for those who remain uninsured.

Doctor-Patient Relationship. I study various aspects of the doctor-patient relationship, including patients' trust in physicians and medical institutions, and patient-centered approaches to health care law and ethics.

Health Care Law and Policy. I am the lead author of the oldest textbook in the field, and I am the lead reporter for the American Law Institute's Restatement of Medical Liability Law. Also, I am a Nonresident Senior Fellow in Health Policy at the Brookings Institution, where I study a variety of emerging health law and policy topics.
